

FOURTH YEAR.

MAYSVILLE, KY., THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1895.

ONE CENT.

CIRCULATION
LARGEST IN THE CITY.

Purely Business!

The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "notices" free any more than a merchant can lose over his counter free gifts of goods or shoes. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern, and its columns are its stock in trade, and advertisements should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Calls

upon The Ledger for free notices have become so burdensome that we are forced to publish the following terms:

For Notices of Suppers,

excursions, fairs, or other public entertainments where a fee is charged, and for ordinary notices, readjustments of receipts, etc., The Ledger will charge five cents a line, and hereafter it will be the inevitable rule. This, however, is not.

Does Not Include

notices of lodge meetings or Church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Avoidance of Disputes.

Misunderstandings are unpleasant. The rate for Business Notices in The Ledger is $100 a line for the first insertion and 50 cents a line for subsequent insertions. A customer orders a five-line local insertion in the paper. "I'll let you know in a few days," says the bookkeeper, but he forgets about it. Two months later—the bill is $100. When he finds out that it is a "kick" and a controversy, followed by a suit, he is in a bad way. Let the notices be accepted hereafter. Let the advertiser have a definite agreement at the outset and the matter will be pleasant and simple.

All matter for publication must be handed in before 9 o'clock in the morning of each day.

UNDER WALLS.

Brave Cincinnati Firemen Killed and Mangled.

Capt. Healey and Pipeman Tom Wisby Taken Out Dead.

A Large Room Seriously Injured, Remains of Wm. May Die—Several Bunches Buried to the Ground—The Financial Loss a Quarter of a Million.

CINCINNATI, July 18.—A homeless, irresponsible vagabond, dirty, unkempt and probably hungry, dropped a lighted match through a grating to a basement on Water street Wednesday afternoon, with the same total unconsciousness of results that animated the cow that kicked over the lamp in Chicago.

The fire started at 1:45 p. m. in the basement of J. W. Healey's rooming house, a two-story building, at the corner of Water street, being located just east of the approach to the Suspension bridge.

It rapidly did its worst, first taking persons on the second floor barely escaped by jumping. The fire did not confine itself to the one building, but ran rapidly eastward, reaching the corner of Walnut and the bridge approach.

In a very short space of time after the first alarm came the ten-blow, a total of thirteen engines responded. The alarm came from 100 feet away, resulting fatalities gave a text for gossip.

In the water street building the combustion seemed perfect. The roof burned off and severely any smoke arose, great forces flames demonstrating that the fire was feeding upon the most inflammable of materials.

Walls began to fall before 2:30 o'clock. A piece dropped out of the top of the front of the Water street building. A quarter of an hour later down came a great four-story section, reaching clear across the street, and covering with debris the space first vacated by three details of firemen.

Bricks flew a hundred feet and did some damage. Spectators gathered and were bruised and many were trampled under foot when the wild rush for safety came.

Wall after wall fell, the one that brought death with it not being the last. The buildings are practically destroyed.

Yet, despite the danger, the firemen did not hesitate, but pushed into the very heart of the fire. They climbed on ladders and fought when enveloped in smoke and heat, and they stood on roofs with their furnaces on both sides and the rays of the sun beating down on their heads, they stood in narrow streets, leaning against tottering walls, and not one of them faltered.

The pain-racked, cruelly wounded bodies of those who tossed in agony through the hot night and the mutilated corpses of two brave fellows testified eloquently, but without words, to the devotion of every man who was called to duty and the inherent bravery of the Queen City firemen.

These men met death and injury by plunging into a building that was notoriously unsafe, forgetful of all but the work before them, unimpaired by the danger that blistered by they crushed down by a wall that was swaying and tottering before they were near it. It is a question of the meaning of property, demanded such a sacrifice.

Following is a list of the dead and injured: Dead—Capt. J. W. Healey, Company 29; Pipeman Tom Wisby, Company 8.

The injured: Prof. Louis Hunk, skull fractured; Ben Tappan, fractured right arm and scalp wounds; El Newman, several ribs broken and scalp wounds; Michael McNally, scalp wounds and left leg broken; William Tappan, spine injured and scalp wound; H. M. Anthony, concussion of brain and internal injuries; Ben Tappan, fracture of right arm; Hart Fanning, internal injuries; Charles McCall, hit on the face with a piece of wood; Wm. May, head and body bruised; John Nollen, arm broken; Walter Hanson, scalp wounds; Peter Purcell, head and body bruised; James Haines, head and body bruised; Fred Proff, from the Louisville club, who will play here Thursday with the former. The price is understood to be $25,000. The negotiations have been pending for some time and were delayed by the protests of Manager Hanson, of Baltimore, and Manager Rogers, of Brooklyn. All the other clubs having consented to the transfer they finally yielded and the deal was closed Wednesday.

Crushed Their Heads. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 18.—While working with a derrick Wednesday morning Carl Garrison had his right hand crushed by being caught in the gears. Jerry Jackson was shot by several bystanders how the accident occurred and his hand crushed in exactly the same manner.

Killed and Injured in a Freight Wreck. COLORADO SPRINGS, July 18.—A Santa Fe freight train southbound from Denver to Colorado Springs fell through a bridge last night, the wrecked cars blocking the road for several hours. Several persons were killed and several others seriously injured.

Killed by an Electric Wire. CINCINNATI, July 18.—The hanging of an electric wire on Sherman avenue, Evanson, Wednesday night, one man was killed and three other persons were seriously injured.
